

My idea

A plasma-generator (Primary Water Electricity) PWE

PWE is a concept that was born from my astronomical knowledge in 2017, PWE is focused on primary water as a renewable energy source, the idea was to compress or contract water until it reaches its primary stage, in the primary stage the water will have an electrical surface that I expect to be able to harvest power from, PWE is expected to be stable so you can "harvest" the surface tension continuously. If PWE becomes a reality, you would be able to get safe, environmentally friendly and eternal energy without any by-product and if you wish to remove the energy-source you simply pour a glass of water on it, PWE opens a whole new world of possibilities and would be good on the environment. Start with a computer-generated plasmafield and then support it.
